This analytics project creates visualizations and models derived from synthetically generated cross-sectional, credit report-type information using the many automated features of SAS Viya's business intelligence application, Visual Analytics.

The synthetically generated data were saved as a .csv file and imported under the 'Manage Data' tab in SAS Viya into an in-memory table in SAS Cloud Analytic Services called 'credit_report'.

The 'credit_report' table can also be viewed in the 'Discover Information Assets' app within SAS Viya, which provides automated data quality and column analysis as well as sensitive data detection (e.g., PII).

The 'credit_report' table is the primary data source for this 'credit_report' visualization report. Each of the visualizations in this report can be saved as a template to use in other reports and for other users.

Additionally, all of these visualizations can be customized and enhanced to support the requirements of end-users.

The 'credit_report' analysis starts with single column (univariate) evaluation where both the interval ('univariate_analysis_int') and categorical ('univariate_analysis_cat') columns in the table are charted to visualize scale and distribution.

Next, the 'campaign_response' and 'campaign_performance' tabs evaluate and chart statistics associated with peer group campaigns.

The 'campaign_response' visualization is a heat map of responses by campaign product type and peer id (generic bank1, bank2, etc.).

The 'campaign_performance' visualization shows how accounts that responded (or not) to a targeted campaign by a peer group performed (defined generally as 'bad_credit' and 'not_bad_credit').

The next set of tabs delve deeper into the analytics associated with this data table with the eventual goal of creating a scorecard.

In the 'correlation_matrix' tab, pairwise correlations are automatically generated and more highly correlated features are shown in a darker hue. The column 'customer_event', which is a bad credit/good credit indicator, is shown in the first position on the x-axis so that users can quickly understand the relative correlations between this variable and others within the table.

The 'selected_cross_tab' visualization shows some cross tabulation metrics associated with customer demographics, including the percentage of bad/good credits by employment status, marital status, and homeownership.

SAS Viya includes other automated analysis that can help shape the direction of scorecard development and weight-of-evidence investigation.

In the 'automated_explanation' tab, an algorithm is run that seeks to identify the potential important variables associated with an outcome, which in this use case is whether the account is a "good" credit or "bad" credit (customer_event indicator).

The 'automated_prediction' tab takes the analysis a step further by evaluating a set of machine learning algorithms that seek to optimize model accuracy and selects the best model. Interactive features allow the end-user to score new accounts or perform what-if analysis in a point-and-click format.

What are the characteristics of Response?

customer_event ranges from 0 to 1. Average customer_event is 0.3. Most cases (the middle 80%) have a customer_event between 0 and 1. credit_utilization_ratio best differentiates the highest (top 10%) and the lowest (bottom 10%) customer_event cases. The three most related factors are credit_utilization_ratio, credit_score, and credit_history_mos.

What factors are most related to customer_event?

What is the relationship between Measure and Category?

customer_event may have a strong positive relationship with credit_utilization_ratio. It appears to be a linear relationship. For every 1 increase in credit_utilization_ratio, customer_event increases by 0.013. Average credit_utilization_ratio is 27, and it ranges from 0 to 100.

What is the prediction for customer_event?

The predicted customer_event for this case is 90.7% lower than the observed average customer_event of 0.3. Most observations (70%) have a lower customer_event than this predicted case. The prediction is based on an automatically selected Gradient Boosting model.

This analytics project creates visualizations and models derived from synthetically generated cross-sectional, credit report-type information using the many automated features of SAS Viya's business intelligence application, Visual Analytics.

The synthetically generated data were saved as a .csv file and imported under the 'Manage Data' tab in SAS Viya into an in-memory table in SAS Cloud Analytic Services called 'credit_report'.

The 'credit_report' table can also be viewed in the 'Discover Information Assets' app within SAS Viya, which provides automated data quality and column analysis as well as sensitive data detection (e.g., PII).

The 'credit_report' table is the primary data source for this 'credit_report' visualization report. Each of the visualizations in this report can be saved as a template to use in other reports and for other users.

Additionally, all of these visualizations can be customized and enhanced to support the requirements of end-users.

The 'credit_report' analysis starts with single column (univariate) evaluation where both the interval ('univariate_analysis_int') and categorical ('univariate_analysis_cat') columns in the table are charted to visualize scale and distribution.

Next, the 'campaign_response' and 'campaign_performance' tabs evaluate and chart statistics associated with peer group campaigns.

The 'campaign_response' visualization is a heat map of responses by campaign product type and peer id (generic bank1, bank2, etc.).

The 'campaign_performance' visualization shows how accounts that responded (or not) to a targeted campaign by a peer group performed (defined generally as 'bad_credit' and 'not_bad_credit').

The next set of tabs delve deeper into the analytics associated with this data table with the eventual goal of creating a scorecard.

In the 'correlation_matrix' tab, pairwise correlations are automatically generated and more highly correlated features are shown in a darker hue. The column 'customer_event', which is a bad credit/good credit indicator, is shown in the first position on the x-axis so that users can quickly understand the relative correlations between this variable and others within the table.

The 'selected_cross_tab' visualization shows some cross tabulation metrics associated with customer demographics, including the percentage of bad/good credits by employment status, marital status, and homeownership.

In the 'automated_explanation' tab, an algorithm is run that seeks to identify the potential important variables associated with an outcome, which in this use case is whether the account is a "good" credit or "bad" credit (customer_event indicator).

The 'automated_prediction' tab takes the analysis a step further by evaluating a set of machine learning algorithms that seek to optimize model accuracy and selects the best model. Interactive features allow the end-user to score new accounts or perform what-if analysis in a point-and-click format.

As shown in the 'decision_tree' tab, interactive decision trees can also be developed, which allows end users to introduce manual changes to the decision tree based on domain knowledge or other business rules.

The last two tabs include functionality to create a custom score card in SAS Viya. In this use case, weight-of-evidence variable transformations were completed in the 'Prepare Data' application in SAS Viya using a custom code transformation. Once the data were transformed, the table with the new features were added to the data supporting this report.

The 'logistic_regression' tab includes the results of a model that regresses a "good" credit on a set of weight-of-evidence variables. Variables can easily be added or removed to accommodate individual use cases.

The parameters from the logistic regression model (the log odds) are then used as inputs into the development of a 'scorecard'. This visualization includes the ability to scale up or down the target score, target odds, and the points to double the odds using a sliding scale to generate the desired distribution of scores. These parameters are used to create the columns offset and factor, which scale the odds to a points system.

There are manual calculations for odds, log_odds, offset, factor, score, and logit parameters which are used in the graphical objects. These would need to be updated with any new model output. Parameters are also created for target_score, target_odds, and points_to_double_the_odds as slider values.
